The School of Engineering and Technology Women's Program Mentors serve as individual peer advisors with 1st and 2nd year ET female students. They welcome 1st year students, help students build their network in the School and at IUPUI, and serve as a guide and resource throughout the first year of college. Mentors will help 2nd year students as they transition into more major specific courses. Mentors positively showcase the opportunities that available for students and serve as a role model.

The mentoring program will consist of biweekly small group sessions, one-on-one meetings as needed and monthly information sessions with guest speakers.

Objectives:

- Provide female students with a positive female role model
- Connect students with their academic program, the School, and IUPUI
- Help students balance the expectations of being an engineering and technology student with other roles
- Provide meaningful and authentic partnerships
- Expand students' awareness of School and campus resources
- Build networks for students
- Provide a venue for students to process their college experience
- Connect students with student organizations, campus events, and opportunities that match their interest and passions
